(b) and (c) There has been substanti growth in export in this sector over th last three years. However, recently som deceleration in export growth has been noticed due to overall decline in demand for both diamonds as well as studded jewellery in a number of major markets. As also a fall in F.O.B. prices of cut polished diamonds.

(d) and (e) Exporters of gem & jewellery have brought to the notice of the Govt. that the revised interest rates on post-shipment credit and routing of import documents through banks have added to their costs and consequently have affected their competitiveness in the World market. Keeping in view the present scenario in this sector, RBI has recently lowered the interest rates on post-shipment credit and has also allowed authorised dealers to receive import documents up to US$ 25,000 by value on its equivalent direct from the overseas seller subject to fulfilment of certain requirements.
